

VAST CROWD OF PEOPLE PRESENT

Roosevelt Delivers Several Short Speeches Before the Main Show in Big Tent.

ADVICE TO LEGISLATORS

MICHIGANDERS ASKED TO HAVE FAITH.

Lansing, Mich., May 31.—President Roosevelt, whose address this afternoon on the campus of the Michigan Agricultural college was the climax of the semi-centennial celebration of the founding of that famous institution, arrived in Lansing at 10 o'clock this morning over the Lake Shore railroad. He made a number of short addresses during the morning from his car platform at small towns. Special excursions had been bringing in thousands of people since daylight, and when the president's train arrived the number of strangers in the city was estimated at 50,000. Twelve companies of the Michigan national guard had been brought into the city to escort and guard the president, together with a troop of cavalry from South Haven, Mich., and two divisions of the Michigan national reserve.

Vast Crowd Present.

The president's train arrived at the Lake Shore station, which is located upon the river front fifty feet below the level of Michigan avenue. Eight companies of militia and the cavalry were in line on Michigan avenue to keep back the thousands of people who crowded around for a glimpse of the chief executive as he climbed the stairway to the street, escorted by Governor Warner and United States Senators Burrows and Smith. Battery A of the Michigan national guard fired a salute of twenty-one guns as the president entered his carriage. The president was driven up Michigan avenue to North avenue, the main thoroughfare, thence to Capitol avenue and to the main entrance of the state capitol grounds.

The thousands gathered there were held back in check by a line of troops extending a full square in front of the building. Lined along on one side of the walk from the avenue to the capitol steps were 500 boys from the state industrial school, in whom the president took an especial interest as he passed, speaking to a number individually.

On the other side of the walk was a company of cadets from Flint and several hundred old soldiers. Doffing his hat and bowing repeatedly, the president entered the capitol, where he held a reception in the executive parlors. After shaking hands with about a thousand persons he stepped out upon the balcony of the capitol and faced 20,000 people gathered there in anticipation of a speech.

The president spoke for about five minutes, making a special point of the pleasure it gave him to see the boys from the industrial school in their gray uniforms and with their wooden muskets. He spoke words of especial greeting to the veterans of the civil and Spanish wars and the militiamen, continuing:

President's Military Service.

"I served at Santiago beside two Michigan regiments of volunteers, and I was instrumental in seeing that the Michigan naval brigade taught the militia and the seamen of the ocean that men know how to sail and shoot upon inland waters. One word of congratulation to the state on what Michigan has done for the marksmanship of the citizens. I don't have to tell you that one of the prime necessities is that when a soldier shoots he should be able to hit something. Encourage marksmanship among our people as a whole. Encourage marksmanship in the national guard and give every chance to any body of private citizens to practice in the armories or elsewhere and give them all the opportunity that can be given them. Build up the old American power of shooting straight."

The president was given an ovation as he concluded his balcony speech and went into the hall of the house of representatives to address the members of the legislature. He spoke there about ten minutes. He said that the railroad problem in this country must be dealt with unflinchingly, but with sanity and reason. There must be steady progress along the lines already laid down. He also mentioned some of his own experiences as a member of the New York legislature.

Duties of Legislators.

The president urged upon the legislators the necessity for public men to be careful about making campaign promises and about keeping them when made. Applying this to the question of control of great corporations, he said:

"We are still a long way from the millennium," and he pointed out the danger of "committing yourselves to a promise that promises too much." As to the "foolish conservatives," they failed, he said, to see that "we are the real conservatives, the real friends of property when we try to do away with the abuse of the property." "We must not be misled either by these often well meant men who let a vague general desire to reform everything supplant the place of exact thinking in their minds, and who, therefore, promise too loosely what could not possibly be performed, or else indulge in a general declamation against the evils without pointing out how the evils are to be cut out."

Sanity as Well as Courage.

"In the war against the abuses of great individuals and especially of great corporate wealth, we need to show absolute, unflinching resolution, and yet to combine that with sanity as well as with courage."

"We need to show, too, the very reverse of any vindictive spirit. The minute you begin to display any spirit of revenge or to administer the laws in a spirit of revenge, you are starting to invoke trouble and an ultimately reaction. We need to show the spirit of Abraham Lincoln, his sanity and his broad and kindly charity and yet his resolute determination that the evil shall be done away with."

"You have been very kind in alluding to certain things that I have done or have tried to do. My power to do them depended entirely upon the support that I have received from the representatives in congress from Michigan and all our other states. (Applause.)"

"We have taken certain steps, some good long steps, in the line of securing a better administration of justice with regard to what is known as the rich or poor, and we have taken steps toward securing better laws for the supervision and control of the great fortunes, especially of great corporate fortunes used in business. We are going steadily forward along those lines, and the only party allusion I shall make today is to say that the Republican party in 99 per cent of its make-up and in all its highest thought is essentially the party of Abraham Lincoln's plan, people, and shall continue to be such. There will not be one backward step along the course which we have marked out to follow. (Loud and prolonged applause.)"

Asked to Have Faith.

"I ask you to judge of present promises by past performances, and to request from your representatives, from your public men, not promises of the impossible, but promises of certain things that can be done which will not bring about a complete solution of the difficulties that confront us, but which will be another long stride toward that complete solution, and, finally, above all things, to approach the problem in a proper spirit, in the Lincoln spirit, not to be misled by the demagogues on one side or reaction upon the other. Let us set our faces like flint against predatory wealth, but also against predatory poverty, with the emphasis on the predatory."

On leaving the capitol the president and party were conveyed in automobiles to the residence of President Snyder of the Agricultural college.

At 2 o'clock the president delivered his formal address from a platform erected at the head of the college campus.

BODY FOUND IN FURNACE

Attempt to Destroy Evidence of Brutal Crime—Murder Mystery at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., May 31.—What is believed to be evidence of a brutal murder was discovered at the Ryan soap works on Spring Grove avenue today. The mutilated and almost completely consumed body of a man was found in the furnace of the factory. There is no clue to the identity of the man, but the indications are such that the police believe he was murdered and an attempt later made to dispose of the body.

A post-mortem on the body determined the fact that the man's skull had been fractured. From the style of the coat upon the murdered man it is believed he was a foreigner, probably a Bohemian. Practically no progress toward a solution of the mystery has been made. John McDermott, engineer at the soap works, has been questioned by the police and is still under surveillance. McDermott discovered the body in the furnace and immediately called his fellow-workmen. McDermott claims the body must have been put in the furnace sometime between 6 and 6:30 this morning, while he was in another room examining machinery.

The man's coat was found near the furnace door. The pockets had been removed and the back cut in a manner indicating that there had been a search for some papers or hidden money.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TRAINS GO SLOWER

San Francisco, May 31.—The Southern Pacific, beginning June 1, will put its overland and coast trains on a slower running schedule. Traffic has been so heavy on the various lines that it has been found practically impossible to maintain the existing schedule, and passengers have repeatedly been delayed to the San Francisco and Los Angeles terminals later than they expected. The changes will make the publication of arrival late enough to conform with the actual average running time and several trains will be started out sooner. The Shore Line Limited will be entirely abolished and not put on again till some time next winter.

The difference in time will be about three hours later to eastern points than under the old schedule.

GEORGE BURNHAM, JR., WILL GET NEW TRIAL

New York, May 31.—George Burnham, Jr., former general counsel of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company, who is now serving a term in Sing Sing for grand larceny, is to have a new trial under a decision handed down by the appellate division of the supreme court. The appellate division reversed the judgment of the criminal branch convicting Burnham and ordering a new trial.

THOSE SUDDEN TWINGES.

Pain is nature's signal of distress, a warning that must not be ignored. Those sharp twinges in the back, those stab-like pains that follow any sudden twist or turn, are simple signs of hidden danger in the kidneys.

No trouble starts more easily, gains ground more rapidly, nor proves more often fatal than any disorder of the kidneys. All the outward appearances of health may remain until a terrible disease has taken root.

It is best to learn the duties of the kidneys, to watch for early signs of trouble, and to correct any irregularity before its serious stage begins.

The blood goes to the kidneys in an incessant stream, to be cleared of poison and relieved of surplus water. This is passed off by the kidneys in the urine. It is the retention of poison in kidney trouble that breeds fatal disease.

Don't wait. The moment you feel any uneasiness, lameness or pain in the back, the moment the urine shows irregularity, either in its appearance, or in the quantity or number of the passages, begin with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Every Picture Tells a Story

Pills. This remedy has been curing kidney troubles for seventy-six years, and never yet has failed to give relief, if taken in time. It cures the kidneys, and thus cures backache, lame back, headache, dizzy spells, urinary troubles, rheumatic pain, gravel, dropsy, swellings, nervousness, languor, sciatica, and all other symptoms of kidney troubles.

Fifty thousand people have testified to the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's a home case.

HERALD PROOF.

Mrs. A. Clark of 367 West First South street, Salt Lake City, Utah, says: "A friend did me a great kindness when she not only recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, but brought me a part of a box that she had at home. I was suffering terribly with backache and kidney complaint, and felt unfit for any exertion around the house. I had not used Doan's Kidney Pills for more than a day when I felt relieved, and by the time I had taken one box not an ache or a symptom of the trouble remained."
